From River/Cui-Ui Gallery, new artists at Wildflower include David Boyer, Marguerite Crokus, Linda Dufurrena, Eileen Fuller, Mark Hammon, Mary and Paul Herman, John Karasch and Mimi Patrick.

David Boyer is perhaps best known for his kinetic metal sculptures that grace light poles throughout downtown Reno's art district. After moving to Reno ten years ago, he took welding classes that led to his metal art taking off. One of his awards was a $40,000 contract from the City of Reno Arts and Culture Commission and the Reno-Sparks Convention and Visitors Authority. With a distinct style in metal sculpture, Boyer is welcomed as one of Wildflower's newest artists.

Wildflower Village is a unique artists' haven with two art galleries on West Fourth Street. Just five minutes from the neon of the arch and casinos, Wildflower is a village worlds apart. The pace is peaceful, yet vibrant with art, creativity and beauty. Located on six acres alongside old U.S. Route 40 west of downtown Reno, Wildflower is blooming with artists' creations – and these days, with hillsides of wildflowers. A dozen or more of the artists who exhibit in the galleries live in the village. Wildflower houses 4,000 square feet of art in two galleries featuring more than 75 artists, an espresso café, wedding chapel, bed and breakfast rooms and motel, artists' studios, and apartments. Between Johnny's Little Italy and McCarran Boulevard on West Fourth Street, the Open Door Art gallery is open from noon to 6:00 seven days a week; the Chapel Gallery, noon to 6:00 Tuesday through Saturday. Information at 827-5250 and wildflowervillage.com.
